FEDERATION OF LABOR

MEETING OF UNUSUAL IMPORTANCE WAS HELD LAST EVENING.

EXPULSION FROM THE SOCIALISTS

Charles Schmidt, Who Took the Place of a Striker in the Missouri Pacific Coppersmith Department.

The Sedalia Federation of Labor held an unusual interesting meeting last night, acted upon a great deal of routine business, received reports of the several special committees, heard reports from the affiliated unions through their delegates, elected delegates to the Missouri State Federation of Labor convention, which will be held in Sedalia beginning Monday, September 16, and decided to have printed in bulletin form 2,000 copies of the union label matter, which is to appear in the 1907 Labor day souvenir.

A general discussion, participated in by all the delegates present, was had upon the question of patronizing union concerns and purchasing goods which bear the union label. The demand for union made goods in Sedalia, it was asserted, is not what it should be, considering there are nearly two thousand union men in the city.

The small demand for union label goods in Sedalia was attributed by those present to a lack of proper agitation, and it was decided to henceforth carry on a systematic campaign of agitation and education on the question of the union label.

The general labor day committee reported having organized with F. H. Kruse, of the tailors' union, as president and E. T. Behrens, of the cigar-makers' union, as secretary. Sub-committees, to which will be assigned the detail work of the celebration, were reported by the general committee, as follows:

Committee on ball—W. J. Musick, F. H. Kruse, Catherine Brunk, Mrs. H. D. Muis, Ida Jolly, Geo. Knaus and Si McVey.

Committee on printing—S. S. McEwen, M. J. Donohue and A. C. Lucking.

Committee on speakers—Geo. C. Thompson, Geo. Knaus and H. H. Templeton.

Committee on privileges—W. B. Morgan, Sam Otis and Jack Mullally.

Committee on music—H. C. Finch, H. H. Templeton and D. A. Barnett.

Committee on refreshments—Theo. Schwartz, P. S. Jamerson and Henry Murphy.

The following are the delegates and alternates to the convention of the Missouri State Federation of Labor: Delegates—P. S. Jamerson, Henry Murphy and W. R. Marshall.

Alternates—J. D. Meyer, F. J. Hecht and H. S. Frazier.

E. T. Behrens, compiler of the annual Labor day souvenir, was authorized by the federation to have two thousand label bulletins printed, of vest pocket size, utilizing the matter which will appear in the souvenir. The bulletin will contain a list of concerns and merchants handling union-labeled goods, together with a classified list of union made products handled by each firm. Facsimile cuts of union labels, store and shop cards will also be displayed throughout the bulletin.

The reports from the several affiliated unions indicated that trade was generally fair. Machinists reported the Missouri Pacific shops as being in need of union machinists.

Bartenders reported that the union bar card at the Antlers hotel bar had been taken down.

Strike on the Bell telephone company was reported still on by the Electrical Workers. They also reported that a conference had been held between the national president of the Electrical Workers, president Gompers, of the A. F. of L., and the president of the American Telegraph and Telephone company, the parent head of the Bell telephone companies, with a view of reaching an amicable adjustment of all differences now existing between the Electrical Workers and a number of Bell companies where strikes are pending. The result of the conference had not yet been learned.

Cigarmaker delegates complained that nearly four-fifths of the cigars consumed in Sedalia were non-union and made outside of Sedalia; also reported settlement of cigarmakers, strike in Cuba, which ended favorably to the strikers. Settlement of the strike, it was reported, had been brought about largely through the influence of the officers of the Cigarmakers' International Union and President Gompers, of the A. F. of L. A communication from the Sedalia Local, of the socialist party, advising the federation of its recent action in expelling one of its members for taking the place of a striking sheet metal worker, and resolutions declaring its attitude on the subject of loyalty to the working class on the economic field was read and ordered placed on file. The resolutions follow:

The socialist party being the party of the working class, reflecting the economic, as well as the political, interest of that class, and recognizing the the trades union movement as

DEATH OF BERT BAILEY

A Pay Patient at the City Hospital This Forenoon.

Bert Bailey, a Sedalian by birth, died of cancer of the bowels at the city hospital at 9:45 o'clock this morning, aged 27 years. Funeral services will be held tomorrow and interment will be made in the city cemetery.

On November 22, last, Mr. Bailey was operated upon for the ailment at Tacoma, Wash. No improvement resulted, however, and later he went to Tyro, Old Mexico, where he remained for several months with his brother, Fred Bailey, general yardmaster for a railway at that place.

A week ago today Mr. Bailey, accompanied by Fred, arrived here. He went to the city hospital immediately, where he has been confined since as a pay patient. He grew worse day by day and the final summons was not unexpected.

Mr. Bailey held membership in the B. of R. T. and Fraternal Order of Eagles, under whose auspices funeral services will be held.

HON. W. J. BRYAN IS HERE

CAME IN FROM EMPORIA, KAS., AT 1:10 O'CLOCK THIS AFTERNOON.

CHAUTAUQUA FORMALLY OPENED

The Attendance Is Not What Was Hoped for, the Weather Considered—Mr. Bryan Goes to Clinton This Evening.

Hon. W. J. Bryan, the opening attraction at the two weeks' Sedalia Chautauqua, arrived in the city at 1:10 o'clock this afternoon from Emporia, Kan., via Kansas City, he having traveled on Missouri Pacific train No. 2 with Governor J. W. Folk, who was en route home from the Kaw's mouth.

Mr. Bryan was met at the station by his cousin, Charles H. Van Antwerp, Hon. John T. Heard and H. W. Harris, president of the Third National bank.

It had been announced that Mr. Bryan would arrive on a special Katy train from Boonville at 1:30 p. m., and a number of persons were at the Katy station to welcome him, they not having been advised of the change in the original program.

As he alighted from the train it was easy to see that Mr. Bryan is in the best of health, and it is not surprising that he has been one of the biggest cards where he has spoken at Chautauquas in the southwest.

He was escorted by Messrs. Heard, Harris and Van Antwerp to the vehicle in waiting and was driven to the home of the latter gentleman on West Broadway, where he met his cousin, Mrs. Mary Van Antwerp, her daughter, Miss Harriet, both of St. Louis, the members of Mr. Van Antwerp's family and a few other friends. The gathering was wholly informal, Mr. Bryan remaining at the Van Antwerp home until it was time for him to depart for Liberty park, where the program incident to the formal opening of the Chautauqua, heretofore printed in the Democrat-Sentinel, was being carried out.

The big tent where the meetings are held is just north of the Third street entrance and faces Park avenue. There were between 1,800 and 2,000 people present when Mr. Bryan was introduced to the audience by the Hon. John T. Heard. The speaker was given a magnificent ovation and is speaking as the Democrat-Sentinel goes to press.

Program Friday, July 19. Landis Day.

9:30 a. m. Devotional hour.

10:30 a. m. Bible study lecture, "Ways to Study the Bible"—Prof. F. K. Farr.

2:00 p. m. Concert Chautauqua orchestra.

2:30 p. m. Lecture-recital—Wallace Bruce Amsbury, the well-known literary humorist.

7:30 p. m. Concert Chautauqua orchestra.

8:00 p. m. Lecture, "A Decade in Washington"—Hon. C. B. Landis, Indiana's brilliant congressman.

Wallace Bruce Amsbury is an author, humorist, lecturer and reader. Rather an unusual combination, says the Chautauquan, but the writer has never heard anything better in an interpretive recital than Mr. Amsbury's "Captain of the Marguerite" sails der Kankakee," as given by Mr. Amsbury. It is just one of his own "Ballads of Bourbonnais, those delightful poems written in the quaint French-Canadian dialect, that are so much out of the ordinary and delightfully humorous.

Amsbury's other lecture—recitals from the works of Field, Cable, Harris and Kipling—gives the hearers a new insight into the beauties of the writings of these authors. Most of Mr. Amsbury's selections are humorous ones, but there is a serious purpose behind the bubbling humor of all of his captivating stories. Don't fail to hear him.

Hon. Charles B. Landis is Indiana's brilliant congressman. Mr. Landis is one of the ablest debaters in the U. S. senate, and as an orator he has few equals on the platform.

More having served his state for the one dozen years in the house of representatives, he will tell of the breaks on the platform.

Mr. Landis has a great theme. Think of all the wonderful events that have occurred in the nation's great workshop during the past ten years, the interesting side glimpses that Mr. Landis will be able to give of our most noted public men, humorous incidents of great statesmen and inside views of Washington life.

All of these things will make a great lecture, a most valuable lecture and a highly entertaining lecture, for it will be delivered in the unapproachable "Landis" way. Don't fail to hear the eloquent congressman.

SHE ANSWERED THE 'AD'

FOR A HOUSEMAID AND HER GENERAL APPEARANCE GOT HER THE PLACE.

SOMETHING DOING AT EARLY DATE

A Pretty Columbus, Ohio, Girl and Her Brother Robbed Her Employers of Diamonds and Other Jewels.

Columbus, Ohio, July 18.—Detectives Harry James and Hugh McNeal have solved the mysterious diamond robbery at the home of Dr. F. W. Townsend, 104 West Second avenue, by the arrest of pretty Marie Foley and her brother, Joseph, son and daughter of a well-known undertaker. Both have confessed, and, according to their stories, have been working together on similar games before.

On the evening of the robbery Marie answered an advertisement at the Townsend residence for a domestic. Because of her excellent manners and pretty face she was hired immediately.

The family left the house later in the evening, leaving the newly employed maid in charge. When they returned she was gone, as were also diamonds and other jewelry valued at $1,000. There was not the slightest clue to who she was further than that she had a yellow dog. That also disappeared.

Two detectives have been working on the case since and were rewarded yesterday. When Joe was brought in he was informed that his sister had confessed, and he told where the hiding place was beneath the Third avenue bridge across the Olentangy river.

A trip there proved he was telling the truth, as a jewel box containing about $800 worth of swag was found.

The girl said that they had worked three other places along the same line that netted them about $100 in jewelry and money. Joe took the part of watching the want columns of the papers and, it is said, planned the jobs.

The girl is exceptionally good-looking, likes stylish clothes, and from her appearance when brought in knows how to wear them. Their relatives are highly respected and belong to pioneer families.

CLOSE OF HAYWOOD TRIAL

Opening Argument of Counsel Tomorrow Morning.

Boise, Idaho, July 18.—The defense in the Haywood case rested immediately after court opened this morning, and without calling a single witness in rebuttal.

Judge Wood announced that the opening argument for the state would be made by Mr. Hawley tomorrow morning.

The jury was not brought into court today, the day being given over to a consideration of the instructions to be given by the court.

On this subject the judge heard the views of opposing counsel, who were requested to give their opinions as to materiality of the evidence showing deportation and the employment of detectives by the mine owners and citizens of Colorado.

The court session this morning was given up to Attorney Darrow, who in behalf of Haywood, argued that a showing of the deportations from Cripple Creek during the strike and the connection of Pinkertons and hired "gun men" should be allowed to go to the jury. Darrow charged the mine owners and detectives with planning the fake wreck on the Florence and Cripple Creek railway, with the blowing up of the Independence depot and with fostering riot and disorder through hired thugs. He charged the Independence explosion directly to J. C. Sterling, a detective of the mine owners.

Darrow was impassioned and hurled invective without stint at the detectives and Orchard, and closed with a whirlwind appeal for the right to show a conspiracy against the Western Federation of Miners.

Borah will reply to Darrow's arguments this afternoon.

Revival Continues With Interest.

Last evening quite a good-sized audience assembled at the tent on south Harrison street. Rev. Thomas took for his subject, "As Jesus Passed By," making a strong appeal to the people. Several expressed a desire to be Christians and four grown people were converted.

There will be preaching this evening. The subject of the sermon will be, "The Second Death." The meeting will continue through the week with one service daily, at 8 p. m. Hear the evangelist without fail to night.

Mrs. Paradis' Father No Better.

Mrs. Joseph Paradis and children, who went to Kansas City some time ago on account of the illness of Mrs. Paradis' father, have returned home. The patient is no better; instead, he is gradually growing weaker, and the end at any time would not surprise the relatives.

TRAGEDY NUMBER TWO

OLD SWEETHEART OF ALLEGED WIFE MURDERER ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

FOUND ON FIRST WIFE'S GRAVE

Had Taken Strychnine, but May Recover—Attempt Followed Arrest of Fred N. Magill, Charged With Heinous Crime.

Clinton, Ill., July 18.—Mrs. Mabel Parrett, who is said to be an old sweetheart of Fred N. Magill, who with his bride is a prisoner at San Diego on the charge of murdering his first wife, was found unconscious last night on the grave of Mrs. Pet Magill, the alleged victim.

Mrs. Parrett had taken strychnine, but it is said she may recover. The woman has been separated from her husband, and the alleged cause was Magill's attentions to her.

The body of the first Mrs. Magill was exhumed last night and an analysis of the stomach will be made for traces of poison.

CABINET MINISTERS RESIGN

Emperor Very Angry at Being Advised to Abdicate.

Seoul, July 18.—The cabinet ministers have resigned. It is reported that the emperor was very angry at the ministers on account of their having advised him to abdicate.

He said he occupied the throne by right inherited from his ancestors, and his subjects had no authority to advise his dethronement.

Marquis Ito, in compliance with the emperor's urgent desire to see him, proceeded to the palace this afternoon.

Tokio, July 18.—It is said here that it is very probable that the emperor of Korea will abdicate in favor of the crown prince as a first step toward reform in Korea.

Seoul, July 18.—Placeards were posted today in the public thoroughfare calling for the death of all Japanese officials in Seoul. The ministers were strongly guarded and every precaution has been taken to prevent riots and attacks upon officials.

A FORMER MISSOURIAN

Under Arrest in Oklahoma for Murder of 27 Years Ago.

Special to Democrat-Sentinel.

Hobart, Okla., July 18.—The sheriff of Macon county, Mo., arrived here today to take back W. S. Davidson, of this city, who is wanted for a murder committed in Missouri twenty-seven years ago.

It is said Davidson was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment, but made his escape.

Davidson has lived here a long time and stands high. His friends are confident it is a case of mistaken identity.

Will Open Greet for Traffic.

Kentucky avenue, between Second and Third streets, which has been closed for two months, while the street was being paved, will be reopened for traffic tonight.

CONFESSED TO MURDER

A WIFE AND HER PARAMOUR IN MICHIGAN COMMITTED THE CRIME.

THE CHILDREN WERE THREATENED

With Death if They Told What They Knew—Woman in the Case Had Been Married Eight Times.

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 18.—Assisting in laying a plot for the murder of her husband and playing an important part in the ghastly crime; washing the blood from the floor and aiding in the removal of his body; even watching the burial of the remains in a secluded spot in the woods, then marrying the man who struck the murderous blow, is all a part of a confession made by Mrs. William Washburn, aged 58, when arrested by officers at Vicksburg this county.

The crime, she declares, was committed eight years ago near Sparta, Mich. She sent her husband to town on an errand and then had William Schimmel hide behind a door in the home. When the husband returned she started a quarrel and Schimmel rushed from back of the door and struck him over the head. The blow did not kill him, and he was dragged into another room by the couple and killed.

His name was Charles Reynolds. The women told the people of the village that her husband had suddenly left home and he was soon forgotten. The two left Sparta, and soon

BURNING THE BRIDGE.

Collier's Weekly plunges into the question of domestic happiness with a feature which the president at least will not mind. The magazine argues that the evils of divorce and the scarcity of domestic servants are closely co-related, and maintains that if some student of sociology would solve the problem of supplying society with an abundance of servant girls, the problem which bothers the president the most would solve itself.

Collier's further maintains that the American school system also is at fault in causing so much unhappiness in the home. The following philippic is hurled at the frivolities of the home and the shortcomings of the school:

"A young woman who has more experience and more skill in bridge than in cooking or in housekeeping is a pathetic figure, for which the responsibility is divisible between a mother who has pitifully failed to understand her duty, and a school system which has not had intelligent public opinion directed on its curriculum for more than a century. Simple living, of course, will help. Elaborate entertaining, which is, as a rule, without reason, except to administer to the vanity of the hostess, entails that extra work and the upsetting of domestic order and routine which most often causes servants to prefer the fixed hours and regular routine of factories and stores.

"For bridge the is no palliation.
Mothers, the fault of whose own early training have left them with vacuous minds, by their playing cause no more loss to the world than their own time, which is more or less valuable at best. But to teach her young daughter to play in order to make up a four and minister to her own dissi-pation, is a selfish crime. To take for this purpose evening hours that might be given to music, which makes for a softer and finer humanity; or, worse still, daylight hours, which might be spent in that outdoor activity which is essential to fit her for the most important business in life, is a wrong for which no amount of training in empty conventions can atone."

BUTTERMILK AND COCKTAILS.
The political puzzle of the hour seems to be whether Fairbanks will run on a buttermilk or a cocktail platform. The cracked ice statesman appears to have joined the ranks of those who daily with drinks that are mixed, thereby causing the greatest alarm in the ranks of the fresh water and buttermilk committee.

For several weeks the country was treated to a series of homely stories of the vice president of the United States going about in his travels in his simple way, stopping here and there at a farm yard to refresh himself with the beverage which the maid of the churn had to offer. The simple tales had what the novelists call heart interest, and the Fairbanks boom waxed strong on its buttermilk diet.

But it so happened that a vice president with higher aspirations mingles with other personages than the simple folk of the farm and dairy. On Memorial day, for instance, at the occasion of the unveiling of the Lawton monument, Mr. Fairbanks, the lover of buttermilk, invited as his guests a number of the nation's luminaries extraordinary, among them
President Roosevelt himself. And it further happened that the drinks which were served were not cold and nourishing buttermilk; instead, they were the light cocktail!

The Fairbanks boom which soared
so gloriously has been punctured.
The followers of the lean and thirsty
Indianian are divided into the buttermilk and cocktail factions, and somehow the two don't mix. The prohibition and the Methodist wings say: "Avaunt, thou bibulous cocktail sipper!" while the gay and fraternal good fellows say: "Alas, thou white and childish buttermilk inebriate!"
After all, just because a man is a candidate for the presidency, is there any reason why he should not drink buttermilk or cocktails as he chooses?

But it's a bitter war, a merry tournament, a fight to the finish, a joyous joust between the cocktail and buttermilk.

THE OLDEST SENATOR.

Senator Edmund W. Pettus, the oldest member of the United States senate, is 86 years old. He still feels deeply the loss of his venerable friend, colleague and fellow townsman, Senator John T. Morgan, who recently passed away. The two had been life long associates, and Senator Pettus was probably the only intimate friend that Senator Morgan had in the senate.

It is interesting to note that Senator Pettus is not only the oldest member of the senate, but also the oldest man in public life in the United States today. He was born two months after the death of Napoleon, while James Monroe was president of the United States. This was before the admission of Missouri to the Union, and only two years after his own state of Alabama was created. He has watched the quadrennial battles of presidential elections sixteen times since he reached his majority, and he has seen the Union double in size from 23 states to 46.

Dolliver and Tillman have a press agent who is entitled to a blue ribbon. The story of the challenge to a duel was well timed with the Chautaqua season for both of the principals coming on.

This latest report of the interstate commerce commission is something in the nature of an advertising booklet. The commissioners have become excellent press agents for E. H. Harriman and his consolidated lines.

Still, most persons would prefer to take chances on being the president of France to holding down the czar-ship.

It took just about 40,000 or 50,000
Elks to make Philadelphia a real live city.

'BOB' FITZSIMMONS OUT

"JACK" JOHNSON, THE NEGRO PU-GILIST, TOO MUCH FOR OLD CHAMPION.

WENT DOWN IN THE SECOND ROUND

The Old-Time Lion of the Ring Proved No Match for the Sturdy Colored Scrapper in Philadelphia Last Night.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 18.—In the middle of the second round last night big Jack Johnson, the colored heavyweight fighter, who, for years, has been trying to gain recognition and a fight with some reputable white man, sent down to dreamland good old Bob Fitzsimmons, the aged scrapper, who at one time was recognized as the greatest ever in the world of pug-ilism.

A big crowd gathered at the Washington Sporting club's quarters to see old Fitz put through his paces. It had been announced that the one-time lion of the ring was as good as ever, that he was in the pink of condition, and that his punch was as lusty as of old.

Even the public, beguiled into paying good prices to see the contest, worked itself up to the belief that the freckled one might last long enough to make a good showing against the colored fighter.

But Johnson was strong as a bull and Fitz as weak as water. The colored man, with the chance of a fight against Burns for a future, provided he beat Fitz easily, waded into Fitz and had him in distress from the start.

In the second round he staggered him with body blows and then mercifully put over the finishing touch in the shape of a knockout to the jaw.
Fitzsimmons did not show a trace of his former prowess and it is probable that Johnson could have stopped him in the opening round if he had cared to do so.

The blow that put Fitz out was a light right to the jaw. The old man fell to the floor, and as he made no attempt to rise the referee stopped the bout.

The hissing which usually follows knockouts of this character was absent, the spectators evidently taking compassion on the former pugilistic star.

Referee Keenan refused to act in the ring, because he had heard that Fitzsimmons had a badly sprained arm. The manager of the club then entered the ring and watched the uneven match.

WHY THE "RABBIT TRACK."

An Oddly Named Section of Railway
in the West.

"Car No. 792,363, H. & G. N., on the rabbit track."
This sort of an entry in the records of the freight department of a railroad often excites the curiosity of new employees. They wonder what is the rabbit track.

Long before the flood of 1903 a section gang was laying a long switch from the yard to the big elevator at Armstrong when they started up a nest of rabbits. After the track was finished it was seldom used and became known as the rabbit track.
When the road had to secure every inch of available space after the flood it began to store cars on this switch.
For want of a better name the switchmen reported it to the car accountant as the "rabbit track" and he in turn marked it up on the records.—Kansas City Star.

Seizes Locomotive in Suit.

A curious seizure by a bailiff is reported from Thionville, France. Some weeks ago a locomotive was derailed and dashed against a house at Beauregard. The proprietor claimed damages, and judgment was given against the railway company. But the company did not pay the compensation fixed by the court. A bailiff appeared at the departure platform and seized the locomotive just as it was starting with a train. The claim was soon settled, but the train was delayed some time, and the railway company now talks of suing the bailiff for damages.

"Wireless" on Railroads.

The Prussian and Bavarian authorities are experimenting with a system of wireless telegraph signals for railroads which is said to promise good results. An aerial transmitter wire is carried on the telegraph poles at the side of the road, transmitting stations in the signal bell towers, and a wire loop antenna is placed on the top of one of the cars of the train. By this means signals to "stop," "go ahead," "go slow," and so on, can be transmitted to moving trains over a distance of seven and a half miles.

VICTORY'S COST IS A BAR

TO A WAR BETWEEN THE PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES AND JAPAN.

BUT VERY FEW PEOPLE REALIZE IT

Huge Losses That Would Occur in the Event of American-Jap Contest, According to Washington Correspondent.

Terrible would be the results of war between the United States and Japan and slight in comparison would be the advantage to the victor, in the judgment of high army and navy officers in Washington, writes the Washington correspondent of the Chicago Tribune.

Statistics which have been collected by the military departments forecast appalling consequences and justify the demand that jingoism cease its efforts to promote a conflict. These statistics are based on results of the war between Russia and Japan, and of that between the United States and Spain. In these two wars the United States and Japan were victors, acquiring territory and protectorates which since have been a source of constant trouble and annoyance and requiring large expenditures of money, the only important effect to date being an increase in international prestige and removal of menace at the doors. The vanquished, Russia and Spain, witnessed destruction of their sea power, suffered immense losses from battle and disease among their armies, were compelled to surrender territory and give up ambitions and found themselves disturbed by unsatisfactory internal conditions.

According to statements made at the war and navy departments yesterday the consequences of a war between the United States and Japan would include:

Destruction of fleet of one or other of combatants.

Loss of territory by vanquished.

Blockade of ports.

Vast injury to commerce of both, but especially to loser.

Tremendous loss of life.

Heavy additions to national debts and consequent increase in taxation.

Loss of prestige by nation suing for peace.

The conqueror would enjoy these fruits of victory:

Additional territory. In case the United States triumphed, Island of Formosa; Europe, especially Russia, would oppose American succession of Japan as a protector of Korea, and occupation of Japanese islands would be impossible.

In case Japan were victor, Philippine Islands, Guam, Tutuila, Hawaii and perhaps Alaska and Panama canal zone, though these last named are doubtful.

Increase in international prestige. Larger claim to control Pacific ocean, which claim would be contested by the other great maritime nations.

While the war and navy departments are making preparations which will insure the United States being ready to defend itself in the event of a Japanese attack, officials see no advantage in this government adopting a bellicose attitude or taking measures which are apt to bring on a war. The dispatch of the fleet to the Pacific is a precautionary measure, and it is the desire to rob it of all unfriendly suggestion that is responsible for the ostensible ignorance of some officials regarding the proposed movement, and of the explanation of others that it may go anywhere but to the Pacific, and, if it does go there it will be merely for practice.

Formal military and naval attaches informally discussed several days ago the purpose and effect of the action of the administration in sending a fleet around the Horn. All agreed that it was wise for the president to take this step, basing their opinion on the advice received from their respective embassies at Tokio. But all expressed the opinion that war would not come for the simple reason that the United States had little to gain and Japan had a great deal to lose.

Japan has insisted for years that under no circumstances would she take the Philippines. Ambassador Aoki reiterated this two days ago. His government has trouble enough with the natives of Formosa. It is engaged in peacefully extending its control over the Pacific by long tentacles, which are routes of steamships flying the Japanese flag. These vessels are subsidized. It is the intention to facilitate the growth of the Japanese merchant marine in every possible way.

If war should come the first effort of the American cruisers would be to sweep the Japanese merchant flag from the ocean. An American merchant marine does not exist. Japan's cruisers would find few ships that would be worth capture.

Besides developing her merchant marine, Japan is seeking to introduce good government and content in Korea. Marquis Ito, her strongest statesman, is in Seoul, the capital of Korea, directing affairs. If war should break out there would be an insurrection in the Hermit kingdom. Russia unquestionably would foster it. China would seize the opportunity to press Japan to release the iron grip she has taken on Southern Manchuria.

The resources of the United States would enable it to carry on the struggle for a long time, even if it should suffer initial defeat. The only way in which Japan could enforce peace would be to occupy a port on the American continent, say San Francisco, and hold it against American assault. With command of the sea, chances are strong that the capture of San Francisco could be effected, but there is no foreign attack here who believes that it could be held for any length of time. American officers say the capture of the city would be impossible.

There has been a great deal of misunderstanding about the Japanese losses in the war with Russia. Everyone has believed that the Japanese achieved marvels in the way of preserving the health of their troops. Information just received here shows this to be erroneous. During the entire period of the war, ten months, the hospitals of Russia received 333,411, or 224.25 per 1,000 soldiers; those of Japan, 334,073, or 220.5 per 1,000. The slightly greater liability to disease of the Russian army is accounted for by the fact that it operated in a climate with which it was unfamiliar. The Japanese found themselves under precisely the same conditions that existed in their own country. The Russian loss in killed and wounded was 171,600; Japanese, 220,700. For every 100 men who were killed or died of wounds thirty-seven died of disease.

There is not the slightest question in the minds of American medical officers that a huge American army, such as would have to be organized, would be subject to typhoid and other diseases, even if it remained in the United States, and loss from disease would be greater elsewhere. Of course, the Japanese would suffer equally as much. On sea the probably is that one fleet would be wiped out. It is extremely doubtful if an American or Japanese battleship would surrender, as did the Russians. Therefore, it may be expected that a defeated command would practically be destroyed and thousands on board either killed or drowned.

Altogether, Washington is united in hoping that the jingoes will not be successful in forcing war between the United States and Japan.

CASE IS A MOST REMARKABLE ONE

Identity of "Mrs. Nannie Long," Supposed to Own Property in Columbus, Ohio, Puzzles St. Louis Police.

St. Louis, Mo., July 18.—Who was Mrs. Nannie Long? Where did she come from? Who and where are her relatives? are unanswered questions to Public Administrator Harry Troll. The woman, strikingly handsome, of the highest education, and evidently of social position, died at the Monticello hotel July 5 of heart trouble. She was 36 years old, a brunette and about six feet in height. Up to the very moment of her death she refused absolutely to give any information as to her past, but simply said she had a will and her affairs were arranged. Her friends were society people here. The only person who probably knew all about her affairs was the late William Trausig, her attorney.

Diligent search by the administrator has failed to bring to light any safe deposit box or bank where Mrs. Long was known.

The effects found in her apartments consisted of four trunks filled with clothing of the finest quality, over $1,000 worth of furs in storage and jewelry and diamonds worth several thousand dollars, but not one cent of money, although during her lifetime she was plentifully supplied with cash and paid cash for everything she bought.

The administrator heard she had been the wife of a Colonel Bertram, of New Orleans, who died a few years ago, leaving a large estate and a widow and one son; that the son, Woodward Bertram, was a student of Cornell University, but the faculty of the university and the city authorities of Ithaca, N. Y., say they never heard of him. Another friend understands the young man's father left him a separate legacy of $30,000 a year.

Following Colonel Bertram's death, Mrs. Long was supposed to have married a Dr. Long, of New Orleans, but every person inquired of in the south say they never heard of Dr. Long. There was not a single letter or paper of any kind to give the slightest clue.

The hotel people say she received many letters daily, always placing the answers in the mail box herself. Her baggage showed that she traveled a great deal. It is evident from the hotel tags that she was in the habit of spending her winters in Los Angeles and other California resorts and her summers along the Canadian border.

Another of her friends here believed the greater portion of her means came from a manufacturing plant she was supposed to own in Columbus, O., but inquiry in that city brought the same negative result.

A number of photographs of her were received by friends on the day of her death.

I will mail you free to prove merit, samples of my Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and my book on either dyspepsia, the heart or the kidneys. Troubles of the stomach, heart or kidneys are merely the symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment and not the cause. Weak stomach nerves—the inside nerves—mean stomach weakness, always. And the heart and kidneys as well have the controlling of inside nerves. Weaken these nerves and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's Restorative has made its fame. No other remedy even claims to treat the inside nerves. Also for bloating, biliousness, bad breath or complexion, use Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Write me today for sample of free book. GOV. J. W. FOLK'S LETTER

TO MR. LEO HARRIS, GENERAL DELIVERY CLERK AT THE POSTOFFICE.

HE WRITES ABOUT STATE HIGHWAY

If Pettis County Expects to Secure the Road. It is Certainly Time She Was Putting Forth an Effort.

Mr. Leo S. Harris, general delivery clerk at the postoffice, is very much interested in the construction of a state highway from St. Louis to Kansas City, and hopes that it will pass through Pettis county. With a view to obtaining information in the premises he addressed a letter to Gov. Folk on the subject, to which he received the following reply Wednesday:

Office of the Governor, State of Missouri, City of Jefferson, July 16, 1907. Mr. Leo S. Harris, Sedalia Mo. My Dear Sir: Your letter in reference to the proposed highway from St. Louis to Kansas City received. The state highway engineer, Mr. Curtis Hill, has been instructed to prepare plans showing the route for this proposed highway. and is to report to a sub-committee of the state board of agriculture, which meets in Jefferson City August 5th.

Until that time it will not be known whether the proposed line will run through Pettis county or not. The chances are, however, it will, if the people there become interested enough in the matter to organize a road district.

I regard this proposed highway as of vast importance to the material welfare of the commonwealth, and it should be of immense benefit to all the sections through which it goes. Very truly—Jos. W. Folk.

The Kansas City Star of Wednesday afternoon had the following telegram from Jefferson City:

Governor Folk is receiving numerous inquiries from persons and organizations along the proposed route of the state highway between Kansas City and St. Louis, concerning the steps necessary to secure the route through similar localities. Among the many letters on the subject received by the governor today was this one from the Business Men's association of Sedalia:

"We are very much interested in the building of the proposed public highway from St. Louis to Kansas City, which you have recommended and will appreciate it very much if you will put us in communication with the proper authorities, that we may be able to take the matter up with the people of our vicinity."

Other letters from persons in the towns and counties along the proposed route say that the citizens are becoming greatly interested in good roads and are particularly desirous of seeing the state pike built between Kansas City and St. Louis, and inquiring of the governor if there is any chance of getting it through their town or county, and if so what steps should be taken to secure it.

The Kansas City Times had the following on the subject Wednesday:

Mr. Hill in discussing the proposition at St. Louis, called attention to the fact that a considerable part of the road is already built, which indicates that he means to make use of roads constructed in the different counties where rock roads are already in use. Jefferson City, California and Sedalia, all have sections of road that can be connected up, and so have other towns along the route. Marshall is likely to make a fight for the road, as Representative Miller, who wrote much of the new law on the subject of roads, is a road enthusiast and runs the principal paper of the country. That, of course, would cut out Sedalia, leaving it twenty-five miles to the south of the road.

Under the system by which it is proposed to build the road the country people must themselves organize road districts. They will be urged to do it. Governor Folk himself will help in a campaign that will include school house meetings in the farming districts to urge the completion of the road. The law is not very well understood and the details must be explained to the farm owners who will help pay for the proposed road.

It is estimated that this road will cost $4,000 a mile and at least $1,000 a mile will be furnished by the state under appropriations already made. This leaves $3,000 a mile to be raised by the land owners. Land fronting on the road will be charged much more in proportion than land in the district a half mile or more away. Where farms are square, 160-acre farms, quarter sections according to government survey, there are 640 acres fronting each mile of road.

That will make the cost of the road less than fifty cents for each acre even if land farther away must pay nothing. But if the jury which must decide the proportion payable for each tract in the district shall charge 20 per cent to land in the district but half a mile or more away from the road forty cents an acre will pay for the road. Divide this into twenty-year payments and the cost a year is two cents an acre with an average additional charge of about one cent an acre a year for interest. The total tax a year on 160 acres will be about $5 the first few years and grade down to $3.40 in the last year or two of the payment. The very small expense attendant upon the building of such a road is something many farmers have not studied and that is one of the reasons Missouri roads are bad.

Dad Murphy's Fervency.

Old Dad Murphy, as he was affectionately known to the boys on the road, was a conductor on a trunk line, transporting large shipments of live stock from the west. Dad had been in the service so long that the rules of railroad had become second nature to him, and the result of the superintendent's frequent orders to the trainmen to answer with military brevity all questions and messages, especially those by telegraph, to relieve the burden on the wires, had reduced Dad to habitually short, concise replies, even to his conversation. On a baking hot July day, when not a breath of air was stirring, and the sun beat on the car roofs till the pitch pulled the soles off the brakemen's shoes, Dad, in looking over his train, discovered that eight hogs had succumbed to the heat. When passing the next telegraph station he threw off a message to the superintendent.

"Burhans! Supt.—Eight hogs dead acc't heat, advise."

"MURPHY, NO. 78." At the second telegraph office received his answer:

"Murphy, Cond., 78.—What is the present condition of the hogs?"

"BURHANS." Dad grunted, shifted his quid of fine cut and wrote as follows:

"Burhans, Supt.—Eight hogs dead acc't heat, advise."

"MURPHY, 78." —Judge's Library.

FOUND FATHER IN JAIL

REASON OF ILLINOIS MAN WAS DETHRONED WHILE IN PITTSBURG, PA.

WENT THERE ON A BUSINESS TRIP

Wired His Son That He Was Lost. And On the Latter Going to Pittsburg Parent Was Located in Jail.

Pittsburg, July 18.—About a week ago John Nailon, of Belmar, Ill., received a telegram from his aged father, James Nailon, a wealthy oil operator in Alabama, stating that he was lost in Pittsburg, and to come to him at once.

The son started for this city, but when he searched all the hotels he could find no trace of the man.

The police were called into the case, and yesterday stories of the strange disappearance of the aged oil man appeared in the newspapers.

Warden Lewis, of the Allegheny county jail, read these and recognized from the description given an aged prisoner in his care, sent down a few days before on a charge of vagrancy.

He sent for the son, and with officers took him to the cell of the man, who turned out to be the wealthy operator, and he was at once released.

Nailon says he lost all recollection of himself or his business. He remembered telegraphing for his son, and then all became a blank. He will be taken to his home at once.

MAN IS WITHOUT LIMBS

Shaves Himself, Rolls Cigarettes, Fills His Pipe, Etc.

Imagine a man without any limbs shaving himself, filling and smoking a pipe, rolling cigarettes and even greasing a needle, writes the New York World. It does not sound very probable, yet it is true, and there is an armless and legless young man at Steeplechase park, Coney island, doing that and a great many other seemingly impossible feats besides.

Randall is his name. He is a native of Demerara, and he is said to have been born without either arms or legs. At any rate he certainly hasn't any now, and surprising as it may seem, he gets along without them far better than does many an able bodied man.

His natural working utensils are his shoulders, chin, lips, tongue and teeth, and he employs them to take the place of his missing arms and legs with natural skill. By operating with them he has supplied himself with a practical means of support instead of becoming a charge on the community.

In addition to shaving and filling his pipe he plays marbles, cuts paper patterns, plays the flute, cuts hair, sharpens knives and razors, and makes kites. Randall is married and his accomplishments have been found sufficiently remunerative to enable him to support his wife and two children with ease.

He Was an Exception.

The late Bishop James Newbury Fitzgerald, in an address in St. Louis, once declared that sympathy, far more than eloquence or learning, made for success in the ministry. "Too many of us," he said, "say the worst of the most inappropriate things. Thus a young Baptist friend of mine, condoling with a housebreaker in a jail, droned: 'Ah, my friend, let us remember that we are here to-day and gone to-morrow.' You may be, I ain't," the housebreaker answered shortly."

Fresh Food in the Country.

"The late Senator Pugh," said a Mobile man, "thought the charms of the country overrated. He preferred the city to the country. He used to tell how, one June day, he met a friend who had taken a house for the summer months outside New York somewhere. 'I suppose you revel in fresh eggs and vegetables out there, eh?' said Senator Pugh. 'Yes,' said the New York man. 'Why, we can get all those things at Scraggs Four Corners almost as cheap as we did in town.'"

Care of a Canary.

When moving a canary from a small to a larger cage, you should take the trouble to satisfy yourself that the bird is not frightened in its new habitation, for it sometimes happens that it is absolutely afraid to fly down from its comparatively lofty perch, and thus gets starved to death because it cannot reach its food. If you see your bird in this dilemma, try and coo it down; and if it will not come, hold it gently and deposit it on the floor of the cage.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 18.—Depressed by financial troubles, Semer G. Wells, a prominent attorney of Minneapolis, has disappeared.

Had he waited three hours longer he would have found all his troubles dissipated by the arrival of a draft for what amounts to a comfortable fortune and a settlement of all his financial difficulties.

Wells has been engaged in the manufacture of sanitary couches. For some time business has been poor. He left a note at his office, saying he could stand the strain no longer.

Just three hours afterward his partner received the letter containing the draft for the money, for which Wells had been longing.

His wife refuses to believe her husband committed suicide, and is doing everything in her power to find him, saying she will expend all of the newly acquired wealth to bring him back. The police are searching for the body.

MANY TIES NEEDED

Commissioners Tell of Missouri Pacific Inspection Trip.

St. Louis, July 18.—Officials of the Missouri Pacific railroad said yesterday afternoon they had not been served with notice of the Missouri railroad and warehouse commissioners' order to limit the speed of trains on divisions of the system west of Jefferson City.

They said they could not determine what action to take respecting the order until officially notified. Mr. Knott, Mr. Oglesby and Mr. Wightman, the commissioners who recently inspected the tracks of the different divisions of the road, west of Jefferson City, say in their report:

"During the entire trip of four days, covering in the neighborhood of 500 miles of track, we do not believe that there were to exceed 500 new ties on the right of way, when many thousands are needed to put the road in a proper and safe condition."

Law of Caste in Way.

One of the objections to railways, in the minds of the natives of India, is that if a Brahmin gets into the same carriage accidentally with a Pariah, he must violate the religious rule which bids him keep 96 steps away from the latter.

SILK DRESS GOT A ROAD

FIXED THE ROUTE OF THE CHICAGO AND ALTON RAILWAY IN ILLINOIS.

THE WHIM OF A WOMAN WON OUT

Mrs. Funk Refused Right of Way Until This Luxury of the Fifties, a Silk Dress, Was Forthcoming.

Bloomington, Ill., July 18.—A silk dress decided the location of the Chicago and Alton railway through Central Illinois in the fifties. Mr. Lee Hickox, of Sangamon county, recalls the incident.

His father constructed the road from Joliet to Springfield. The right of way, as selected by the promoters, extended south from this city through what is known as Funk's Grove. All of the land through this section was owned by Isaac Funk.

He was willing to sell what land was needed for the road, but his wife refused to affix her signature to the deeds and the project was temporarily blocked.

Finally Mrs. Funk agreed to sign of she was given a silk dress, an unheard-of extravagance in those days. She remained firm and finally the promoters, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Funk, came to Bloomington, where the finest silk dress pattern that money could buy was ordered for her.

After this was accomplished she called for a pen and attached her signature to the papers. The right of way which she signed for is now occupied by the towns of Shirley, Funk's Grove, Atlanta and McLean.

If Mrs. Funk had been refused the dress the road might have been constructed in another direction and as the Funks owned vast tracts on each side the detour would have been considerable.

History does not record whether Mrs. Funk ever wore the dress, as there were few occasions in those days when it would have been in form.

How He Got a Drink.

An Indiana traveling man told a story the other day of an incident on the road. He was in the smoking car of an express train reading his paper when a man rushed in from the car behind the smoker, evidently in great agitation and said: "Has anybody in this car any whisky? A woman in the car behind has fainted!" Instantly dozens of flasks were produced. The man who had asked for it picked out the largest one, drew the cork and put the bottle to his lips. With a long, satisfied sigh he handed the flask back, and remarked: "That did me a lot of good, and I needed it, for it always makes me feel queer to see a woman faint away!"

Happiness.

Happiness in this world, when it comes, comes incidentally. Make it the object of pursuit, and it leads us a wild goose chase, and is never attained. Follow some other object, and very possibly we may find that we have caught happiness without dreaming of it, but likely enough it is gone the moment we say to ourselves, "Here it is!" like the chest of gold that treasure-seekers find. There is something more awful in happiness than in sorrow—the latter being earthly and finite, the former composed of the substance and texture of eternity so that spirits still embodied may well tremble at it.—Nathaniel Hawthorne.

Real Hard Cider.

John Fair, a highly respected citizen of Montgomeryville, Armstrong county, has at his home a small keg containing several quarts of cider which was made by himself 61 years ago, says the Philadelphia Record. Altogether there were several kegs of the liquid, but now only a few quarts remain, and Mr. Fair is guarding that jealously. The cider is so old that it has turned black in color, and so strong that less than a teaspoonful will put a drinker in the Happy Land.

An Explanation.

"Fat men are invariably honest," said the deep thinker, "and I believe it's because they are so sensitive about their fat." "I don't see what you mean?" "Well, if they should be dishonest, and get caught at it they might have to wear convict suits with the stripes running in the most unbecoming becoming way."

Faulty Statistics.

"The department of agriculture has figured out," he read from the paper, "that rats cost the people of this country $100,000,000 a year." "John Henry," replied his wife, "I don't believe a word of it. Why, mine only cost 35 cents, some women make their own, and some wear their hair flat. Huh, can't tell me."

DOOM OF MIGHTY LONDON.

Fire About the Only Agent Which Can Cause Its Destruction.

With hints of German invasion and of an approaching earthquake, the question "What will be the doom of London?" seems a not unreasonable one. What will be the end of the great city? What will bring about the ruin over which Macaulay's New Zealander is to cast his moralizing eye? Several answers may be given. The destruction of London at the hands of a victorious invader is possible, but extremely improbable. London may be besieged, even bombarded; she cannot be destroyed. Flood? This again may be dismissed as most improbable; and one calamity only remains to be considered, namely—fire. Now, London has suffered more than once terribly from this cause, and in 1666 the city was practically wiped out. Every one knows this; but it is not every one who knows that the great conflagration was predicted 15 years before by Lilly, the astrologer, and by another astrologer, Nostradamus, a century before that. Nostradamus cast his prediction in a French quatrain, the gist of which was that in 1666 London would be visited by a conflagration which would destroy St. Paul's and 89 other churches.—Casell's Saturday Journal.

TRUE TO HIS PROMISE.

By Their Own Testimony, Doctor Had Rejuvenated Patients.

A German doctor who claimed to have discovered the secret of restoring youth, advertised in London that he could in two days rejuvenate the most decrepit hag. This brought a crowd of ancient dames to his house. At the first interview he invited each patient to write her surname, Christian name and age on a piece of paper. The ages whereto they pleaded guilty varied, but all ruled high. The doctor undertook to give each patient the promised elixir next day. On the appointed day the doctor regretted that he unfortunately had mislaid the paper containing his youth-seekers' ages, and he, therefore, requested each one to write it down and call again. In writing down her age the second time each woman took many years off the age she previously had admitted. The doctor, pretending to have found the first papers, called them to witness, comparing the lists, that he had kept his word, inasmuch as in 48 hours they had all become many years younger.

S.S.S. FORTY YEARS OF CURES

Long experience and thorough testing have proven S. S. S. to be the King of blood purifiers and the greatest of all tonics. For nearly half a century S. S. S. has been used in the treatment of blood and skin diseases of every character, and so satisfactory have been the results that it is now the best known and most widely used blood medicine on the market. S. S. S. attracted attention as soon as it was placed on the market by curing promptly those diseases for which it was recommended, and we have so jealously guarded its first good reputation, by keeping it up to its standard in manufacture, that it now has the unequalled and pleasing record of "Forty Years Of Cures." For Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Sores and Ulcers, Malaria, Skin Diseases, Contagious Blood Poison, and all other diseases due to an impure or poisoned condition of the blood, there is nothing that equals S. S. S. It counteracts and removes the germs and poisons, cleanses the system of all unhealthy matter, cures the trouble permanently, and restores strong, robust health. Where the blood is weak or anaemic and unable to nourish the system as it should, S. S. S. supplies it with the needed properties, and being a bracing, invigorating tonic it builds up the entire system. It goes to the very bottom of all blood disorders, and in this way reaches deep-seated and inherited cases on which the ordinary sarsaparillas and tonics have little or no effect. Not only is S. S. S. certain in its results, but it is an absolutely safe medicine. It enjoys the distinction of being the only blood medicine on the market that is guaranteed purely vegetable. If you are in need of a blood remedy begin the use of S. S. S., the medicine that has proven its worth by its record of forty years of cures. Book on the blood and any medical advice you wish. No charge for either.

LEAPED FROM A WINDOW

MASONIC TEMPLE IN CHICAGO SCENE OF DEATH OF A DEPENDENT MAID.

A MARBLE SLAB WAS SHATTERED

Hundred: Saw the Body Twirl Downward and Strike in the Rotunda of a Fifteen-Story Building.

Chicago, July 18.—In sight of hundreds of persons, Miss Anna Normoyle, 20 years old, of 434 Forestville avenue, either jumped or fell from a fifteenth-story window of the Masonic temple shortly after 5 o'clock last evening and was killed.

Twirling and turning, Miss Normoyle shot downward a distance of 300 feet, in the court of the skyscraper, striking the landing at the top of the third floor stairway with such force that a marble slab 3 inches thick and 8 feet square was shattered in a thousand pieces. Even this did not stop the terrible fall and Miss Normoyle fell through to the first floor, landing directly back of the cigar stand on the first floor of the rotunda.

Scores who had witnessed the tragedy hastened to the spot. They found the young woman dead, and her body so mutilated that it had but little semblance of a human form.

The window from which Miss Normoyle jumped is in the office of the Sterling Electric Manufacturing company. It opens directly on the court and is equipped with two iron bars placed so as to prevent persons from falling out.

This fact at first led to many rumors, but relatives of the young woman informed the police that the suicide theory was undoubtedly correct, as Miss Normoyle had been in ill health for some time and yesterday was the first time in several weeks that she had been able to leave her home.

In company with Miss Maude Born, her cousin, she had gone to the Masonic temple to see Miss Mamie Nelstrom, a friend who is employed as a stenographer in the office of the Sterling Manufacturing company.

It was during a moment's absence from the room of Miss Nelstrom, and while Miss Born was in another part of the office, that Miss Normoyle was suddenly seized with a desire to end her life. It is believed she stepped over the bars and, without hesitating a moment, took the leap.

Miss Born returned just in time to see the young woman jump, and it was her screams which first apprised the hundreds of occupants in the different offices of the building of the tragedy.

ASTONISHING RESULTS

Follow Each New Discovery of Science.

The great strides that medical science has made in the last few years is due to the germ theory. When the germ of a disease has been discovered, the doctors have not been slow in finding a drug to kill it. In a few years it will be rare to find a bald-headed man or woman. The falling out of hair is due to a dandruff germ, and now it has been discovered how to kill this germ. The remedy used is called Newbro's Herpicide. Its success has been marvelous. Not a failure has been so far reported. It is also a delightful hair dressing free from oil or sticky substances. Try it and be convinced of its actual merit. Sold by leading druggists. Ending a Tyranny

By J. L. Harbour

(Copyright, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

A little old man with stooping shoulders stood before the sink in Maria Pany's kitchen, washing dishes. Suddenly a high-pitched, strident voice came down to him from the open door of the stairway leading from the kitchen to the rooms above. "Pa!" screamed the voice.

"Yes, Mr.!"

"You got them dishes done yet?"

"Just about; but I've got the skillets to wash yet."

"Seems to me you're terrible put-tery this morning."

"There was more dishes to wash than common, Mr.!" replied the old man, in a gently deprecating tone.

"Well, finish 'em up just as soon as you can, and then mop up the kitchen floor and give the dining room a real brisk sweepin'." We must start in on our regular housecleanin' next week."

A suggestion of a frown came into the old man's ruddy face. He hated housework, and his aversion to housecleaning amounted to real loathing. Maria prided herself on her thoroughness, and her warfare against dust and dirt was fierce and uncompromising. When her mother died, Maria had promptly decreed that she and her family should live with Pa. The old man's mild objections had been roughly overridden, and in less than a week after her mother's death Maria and her husband and their four noisy, unlovely children had invaded the old man's home, his house being larger and better than the home of the Penneys.

From the day of Maria's arrival in his home Pa had been "set aside" so far as his authority had been concerned. A man of a gentle and yielding spirit, who loved peace and harmony in his home, he had felt that it would be better to yield to the dominating Maria than to be in a state of constant contention—"spatting," he called it—with her. He rebelled in spirit when Maria decreed that he was now too old to be at the head of the farm work.

One day a telegram came telling Silas Penny of the death of his father in a town 50 miles distant, and Maria and Silas departed to attend the funeral. Silas, like Maria, was an only child, and when he came home he brought his mother with him. She had felt that it would be better for her to remain in her own home, as she was a woman of but 65 years and in excellent health. But Silas had protested that it would be better for her to "break up" and make her home with him. He had already figured it out, with the help of Maria, that it would be cheaper to have her live with him, for her small farm could then be rented and his mother could "save up" the money and thus increase the amount of the estate Silas was to receive when she died.

Pa's sympathy went out to Lucinda Penny the moment he knew that she was to be on inmate of her son's home, and before a week had passed Lucinda had come to the definite opinion that it was a "burning shame" the way Pa had to work, to "fetch and carry," for his daughter. Naturally enough, the old couple soon began to give voice to their sympathy for each other and to bewail the cruel decree of fate that had placed them in their unhappy positions.

Thus a year passed, and Maria had grown more tyrannical than ever, and Silas grumbled openly if his mother spent any of her small income. Lucinda bore her unhappy lot in silence, and only she knew of the tears she shed in the secrecy of the poor little room in the attic to which she had been relegated by Maria. Pa was her only confidant.

One day Silas and Maria announced their intention of taking their children the following week and driving over to Penrose, 20 miles distant, to spend several days with a cousin of Silas's named Hugh Ray.

"I reckon, Mother, that you and Pa could do for yourselves a few days, couldn't you?" asked Maria at the breakfast table.

"I should think likely," said Pa before Lucinda could reply, and then he added, with grim sarcasm: "Of course we're poor, weak critters, who can't do much more than crawl to our woodpile and carpet loom, but I reckon we might sneak up strength enough to skirmish around and git us a bite to eat, feeble and worthless as we are."

Maria's face flushed, and Silas frowned and made a vicious stab at a slice of bread with his fork, but, although he would not admit it, he had a wholesome fear of his father-in-law, and did not care to cross swords with him.

Almost numberless were the commands as to the things they must and must not do given to Lucinda and Pa by Maria and Silas the morning they left home.

The moment the wagon containing Silas and his family started from the barnyard a humorous twinkle came into the wrinkled face of Pa, and he shook one fist after the retreating family and said:

"Scat!"

"Scat!"

Then he turned to Lucinda and said gayly:

"When the cat's away the mice will play." Not a darning thing they told me to do while they were gone am I going to do! Nor you shan't do a thing they told you to do, Lucinda!"

They were like a pair of children freed from irksome parental restraint.

Pa put on his apron and helped to prepare the dinner. Now and then his cracked voice rose in snatches of merry song. His spirits were at high tide when they sat down to the table set between the two front windows where sunshine flooded the room.

"This is great, Lucinda! I feel as if I was about 20 years old. I reckon that if Mr. and Si' could see us now they'd feel that they'd no cause to worry 'bout us not being able to take keer of ourselves."

Suddenly he dropped his knife and fork, brought his two calloused palms together with a resounding clap, jumped to his feet and said:

"Good Lord!"

"Why, what is it, Pa Allen?" asked Lucinda.

"This!" he cried, running to her side and putting one arm around the back of her chair, while he leaned over her and said eagerly and rapidly:

"Lucinda! why can't we keep this up right along? Why not? Listen to me! This house is mine—mine. This farm is mine. By every law of right it should be mine to do as I please with while I live. I spent the best years of my life toiling to earn it. It is wrong, wrong, wrong that my home should be invaded in this way, my just rights ignored. And it is equally wrong that you should have been made to give up your own home and to be situated as you are. It is all wrong, and it is wrong for us to submit to it. Lucinda, you have lived more than a year in this house with me, and you know that I love peace and that I am a well disposed man. You wouldn't be afraid to trust your happiness to my keeping, now would you, Lucinda?"

She looked up at him and said frankly:

"No, I would not."

"Nor would I be afraid to trust my happiness to you after what I've seen of your kind and gentle ways. Lucinda, we're not such very old people. We may have many years of life before us, and we have the right to make them happy and peaceful years. They never can be that under the rule of our children, who have no right to run over us. Marry me, Lucinda! Marry me now—this very day! I'll hitch up after dinner and we can drive over to Elder Penfield's and come back man and wife!"

"I—I—why, it don't seem as if I could, Pa Allen."

"Yes, you can now! You got to!"

The bridal pair were standing at the gateway of their home when

He Walked Into the House with His Arm Around Lucinda's Waist.

Silas and his family returned three days later. Maria's keen eye was quick to note the triumphant look on her father's face, and the unwonted and apparently defiant way in which he held up his head. She noted that he held Lucinda's hand in his, and that Lucinda also held her head high and looked fearlessly into the face of Silas. The moment the wagon came to a standstill, Pa said without a tremor in his voice:

"You needn't git out any of you. You'll find everything you brought to this house and even more in your own house down the road. I carried them there while you were gone. They should never have been taken away and brought here. This house and all that's in it is mine—mine and Lucinda's, and—"

Maria and Silas had alighted from the wagon and stood, with their baggage in hand, just outside the gateway ready to enter.

"In the name of sense," began Maria; but her father threw up his hand with the warning gesture she knew she must heed, and added:

"Silence, Mr.!" We have no reproaches to heap upon you; we have no hard feelings even. We are too happy for that. We're just as happy as every bride and bridegroom should be. Yes, we're bride and bridegroom. Better hurry on home now, for it looks real show'ry."

He walked into the house with his arm around Lucinda's waist and a radiant smile on his wrinkled face, while Silas and Maria, dazed into speechlessness, drove on to their own home, writhing under a deserved sense of utter defeat.

W. E. BARD SPRINGS NEW CIGAR.

Present Wadsworth Bros.' Chico Which Sells Like Wild Fire.

The W. E. Bard Drug Co. recently introduced a new brand of cigars—Wadsworth Bros.' Chico. In size and quality they are the style of a ten-cent cigar, but retail at five cents straight.

Mr. Bard's aim is to give the smokers of Sedalia the best goods possible and he believes that in pushing and recommending the Chicos he has done a good thing for people who like a good cigar at a reasonable price.

The Chicos are made from a long clear Havana filler, and burn with a solid ash. In flavor and fragrance they cannot be told from cigars that retail at ten and fifteen cents. The fact that they are today the favorite smoke of the most fastidious trade, people who heretofore smoked nothing but ten and fifteen cent cigars, shows that this is true. Prove it for yourself, however, by trying a Chico. Put down a dime at the drug store cigar counter and see if the two cigars you get are not better than any cigar you ever smoked before for twice the money.

Spring Fork News

Spring Fork, July 17.
The rain is what the farmers need. If we only can get our hay taken care of between showers.

Mrs. Chas. Ward, who has been quite sick, is reported some better. Pat Sullivan shipped a fine car of hogs from this place to the St. Louis market last Tuesday.

The little child of Mr. and Mrs. Jake Sanders, who had the misfortune of falling in a boiler of hot water and was scalded very badly, is reported to be getting along nicely.

The Donahoe brothers are making great improvements on the west road by cutting the woods and brush. Mrs. Busker, who was called to the bedside of her sick father, returned home, leaving him about the same.

Harve Ray was a passenger to Sedalia on the afternoon train last Wednesday.

Preston Duckworth is again with us, from Duroc, Mo.

There is going to be an old time picnic at this place August 15th. Everybody is welcome.

We have the well known Bocabelli castle soap. To show you the high quality of this soap, cut this out, present it to us with 5 cents and get a 10-cent cake.—Arlington Pharmacy.

MAN SANK TO HIS DEATH

WENT DOWN IN THE QUICKSANDS
AND NOT ONE DARED GO TO HIS RESCUE.

ROPE CAME TOO LATE TO SAVE HIM

Treacherous Schoen Lake at Waterloo, Ill., Claims Another Victim
—Met a Death That Was Horrible.

St. Louis, Mo., July 18.—John Kirk, of St. Louis, went to his death by inches, as he slowly sank in quicksand on the edge of Schoen Lake, at Waterloo, Ill., thirty-seven miles from St. Louis, at 9 a. m. yesterday.

Friends on shore dared not step into the treacherous sands to rescue their comrade. Bubbles in the water arose as Kirk's shrieks turned into gurgles when the sand dragged him below the water.

"Look out for the sand near the shore," admonished one of his friends as Kirk, a farm hand, dived into the lake for a swim.

After the cool waters had refreshed him, Kirk swam toward shore and started to wade to the bank.

One foot became mired in the sand. Then as he put the other down with force to extricate the first one, he sank and could move neither foot.

The sand sucked and dragged him deeper and deeper.

"Save me, save me," he shrieked, as he sank to his knees.

"I can't go in," yelled a friend from shore, who knew the dangers of the place.

A friend ran for a rope to throw to Kirk. Others stood on shore shouting advice, but not daring to venture on the sands.

Kirk sank slowly, as though a weight were dragging him down. He continued yelling, and with his mouth open still appealing for aid, his head was carried beneath the water, and he was drowned. Even then no one ventured to recover the body. It is possible the body may never be reclaimed.

Other deaths have occurred at this dangerous point. A man sank in much the same manner four months ago and others have been lost frequently in the past years.

HAVE HOSPITAL ON WHEELS.

Valuable Addition to Equipment of Eastern Railroad.

In car No. 1099 the Erie railroad has added a complete hospital on wheels to its equipment. It is provided for use when in case of an accident passengers or employees are injured and the nearest hospital is so far away that operations on the spot become necessary.

Divided into two compartments, the 60-foot car has an operating-room 15 feet 10 inches in length, equipped with an Isaacs operating table, with a removable head and foot extension, an instrument sterilizer on the right and a surgeon's basin on the left. The car also has two lockers equipped with surgical instruments and stocked with bandages, plasters, sponges, astringents and other medical and surgical necessities.

Four-foot slide doors in either side, with portable steps, permit of an easy entrance with a stretcher to the room, which has ten side windows and a large window in the roof over the operating table. All are of ground glass and provided with white rubber roller curtains. A gravity water system to furnish both hot and cold water can be regulated by a surgeon with a valve operated by the foot.

Two sliding doors, with ground-glass windows, lead to the wardrobe, 43 feet 4 inches in length, equipped with 11 brass bedsteads and a lavatory and saloon. Boxes under the car carry crutches, splints, army stretchers, surgical implements, wrecking tools and other accessories. The car rests on six-wheel trucks.

No Grade Crossings in Austria.
They have no grade crossings in Austria. A railroad with 728 bridges has just been opened by the Archduke Franz Ferdinand. It connects Trieste with Assling, passing through Tyrol. Besides the 728 bridges there are 47 tunnels on this wonderful railroad. The bridge over the Isenzer river is one of the 50 largest bridges in the world and has a span of 270 feet. The reason for the multiplicity of bridges is the mountain country through which the railroad runs, but the level crossing for a railroad is not tolerated in Austria.

Oxen Against Railroads.

In the Cape of Good Hope Colony many of the short railroad branches and extensions do not pay on account of ox wagon competition.

In the report for the year 1905, recently issued, the traffic manager of one of the lines reports in regard to a new 19-mile branch that as there was a very plentiful supply of wagons and an abundant supply of grass during the season ox wagon rates ruled low and the railroad secured little general traffic.

ARE LOFTIEST OF MINES.

Worked by Incas and Now to Be Opened by New Company.

It is thought that the old Caylloma silver mines in Peru are probably situated at a greater elevation than any other considerable mines in the world. Their altitude varies between 14,000 and 17,000 feet. They were worked by the Spaniards in the sixteenth century, and before that, it is believed, by the Incas. An English company is now preparing a hydro-electric plant for them. This plant will be situated at an altitude of between 15,000 and 16,000 feet. It will derive its power from a waterfall on the Santiago river, and in a dry season from Lake Huallacho, one of the sources of the Amazon. The power will be transmitted by cable about three miles. At the highest mines the pressure of the atmosphere is only eight and one-half pounds a square inch, and water boils 24 degrees below the ordinary boiling point.—Youth's Companion.

TRICK NOT ALWAYS AMUSING.

Sometimes Hussy Is Entirely Unable to See the Joke.

This is a simple trick, and every married woman can perform it; but it requires the assistance of a confederate with a big bag of shining tinware on his back. First get a husband with an extra pair of slightly worn trousers in his wardrobe; then have the confederate—the man with the bag of tinware—come to the back door and knock gently. The wife must then peep out in a frightened way, and immediately the man with the tinware tells a tale that resembles a mining stock advertisement. The wife stops to think a few minutes. Suddenly she must rush to the wardrobe, but only after the man rattles the brilliant tinware to arouse her. The wife must walk back to the man again with the trousers. The man must take them and hand the wife a few tin pans. All the while the man with the tinware must smile happily. At last the transaction is completed, and presto change! the husband's trousers have disappeared and in their place appears some tinware on the kitchen table. This trick is very novel, and will amuse the husband greatly. The trick should not be performed while the husband is in bed, unless he has an extra pair of trousers.—F. P. Pitzer, in Judge.

"I GUESS" AND "CALCULATE."

Expressions Are Good English and Not at All American.

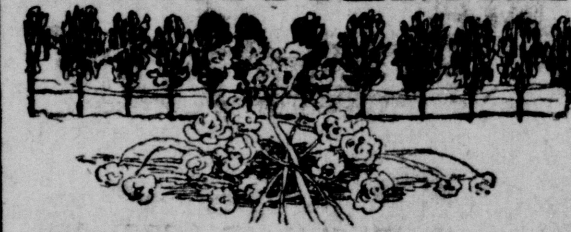

The accepted manner of defining Americans, either male or female, in the London comic papers or in second-rate English novels is to laud their speech plentifully with "calculate" and "guess," and with "well" at the opening of each sentence. This mode of marking, or any other, is in itself totally unimportant, but linguistically it is not without interest, for while it is purely conventional as now used and has no relation to any American habits of the present day, whether good or bad, it is pleasant to note that the hard-worked insular humorist need not have gone so far afield to find the words necessary for the identification of Americans. They really had but to turn to the "New Letters" of Thomas Carlyle (volume 1, page 178) and there read the following sentence: "He has brought you a Fox's book of Martyrs, which I calculate will go in the parcel to-day; you will get right good reading out of it, I guess."—Scribner.

HORTICULTURE

GRADES OF NURSERY STOCK.

Every Nurseryman Has His Own Methods of Classification.

There are no established grades of nursery stock, every nurseryman having his own way of grading. Some put out extra heavy trees which correspond to the No. 1 grade of others and in this way are able to quote prices which are seemingly low. As a rule, eastern nurserymen make more grades than do those of the west. All the grades that some make are one, two and three years old, says Farm and Home. Most nurserymen grade according to height, while some use both height and diameter. The age grade is misleading because if the trees make a light growth the first year they are cut back strongly and, then making a good growth, are put out according to the age of the top.

The different grades of apple trees made by some nurserymen are shown in the cut. They are 2 to 3 feet, 3-4 feet, 4-5 feet, 5-6 feet, 6-7 feet and 7-8 feet. All trees are headed at the same height, but some make a much stronger growth than others. There are fewer grades of other varieties of trees, but at least three are made of each. Which is the best to plant is a mooted question. Some successful planters prefer the heaviest trees, while others equally as successful take medium or lighter grades. Really more depends on the way the trees have been grown than upon their size.

HAND PICKED.

Keep the cultivator teeth and the hoes bright and sharp.

This month make several successful plantings of sugar corn.

Keep tomato vines off the ground; use stakes, brush, or a trellis.

A properly-branched fruit tree is likely to produce more fruit than a poorly-shaped one.

Fear trees that are too well fed grow too quickly, make a loose wood and are easily attacked by blight.

Sir your soil as soon as possible after every rain. This will check evaporation and conserve moisture.

Never set bush lima beans closer than two feet apart in the rows. See that the climbing limas have poles to run on.

Planting plum trees in blocks of one variety is a poor way to insure fruitage, as plums require cross fertilization.

Keep asparagus beds clean. Use the shoots freely until peas are plentiful, then stop cutting and allow the tops to grow.

The apple tree that has its head close to the ground is partly protected from the high winds that shake the fruit from high-headed trees.

The early lettuce bed is an excellent place to sow turnips for early fall table use. Remove the tough lettuce stubs, spade the ground so that the surface layer is turned under about two inches and sow the seed.

Spraying for Scale.

Summer spraying for San Jose scale is unsatisfactory, but if trees or plants are so badly infested that it seems probable they will die before winter a mild treatment needs to be given. One pound whale oil soap to five gallons of water may be safely used. While it will kill the young, crawling insects it will not hurt the old scales and will need to be repeated several times to kill the young constantly hatching.

Bordeaux Mixture.

The Bordeaux mixture is the proper remedy to use for all fungous troubles; viz., mildew and rust of beans; potato and tomato rot and leaf blight; melon and cucumber diseases; asparagus rust; celery leaf blight and rust, etc. The half-strength mixture (two pounds copper sulphate, two pounds quicklime, 50 gallons water) is strong enough to use in the vegetable garden, except for potatoes.

Raising Melons.

Raising melons and squashes is a sort of lottery, but we have been able by eternal vigilance to raise enough for the family by using land plaster. It has to be sprinkled on the plants after every rain and a very heavy dew. A neighbor has been using moth balls with success, sticking three in the surface of each hill.

Sharp Says: All he asks of a customer buying a piano is that he show as good horse sense as when buying a hog or a critter for his herd; then pedigree counts, blood tells, and the registry talks. Sharp's pianos have reputation. The World's Exposition Records at Paris, 1900, and St. Louis, 1904, has his pianos on their register, way up with the best premiums and highest honors ever given to a musical instrument.

Ain't that worth as much to a piano as a pedigree is to a hog?

REGARDING RAILROADS

NO SPEED LIMIT ORDER YET RECEIVED BY GOULD LINE OFFICIALS.

COACH, CAB AND CABOOSE ITEMS

Matters of Interest Picked Up From Various Sources for the Benefit of Democrat-Sentinel Readers.

Vice President C. S. Clarke, of the Missouri Pacific-Iron Mountain, who was at the general offices yesterday, after his return from New York, said that the official announcement of the change in the passenger traffic department would be made from headquarters within a few days, says today's St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

He confirmed the report of the selection of Mr. C. L. Stone, general passenger agent of the Louisville and Nashville, as passenger traffic manager, a new office on the Missouri Pacific-Iron Mountain system, and Mr. Stone will enter upon his new duties at St. Louis headquarters August 1.

General Passenger Agent Townsend will retain his title and there will be no other changes in the passenger department for the present. Mr. Townsend will return to St. Louis headquarters from Michigan today.

Vice President Clarke said that his attention had been called to a report in the newspapers with reference to the condition of the Missouri Pacific tracks and an order limiting the speed over certain sections, but he had received no official statement from the board and therefore was not prepared to make any statement thereon. No order limiting the speed of trains had reached Missouri Pacific headquarters.

General Superintendent E. A. Gould says that the main line of the Missouri Pacific is in as good condition, so far as its roadbed is concerned, as any road in the west.

The action of the passenger department of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas in issuing a circular to agents and conductors, instructing that all clergy permits issued by the Southwestern Passenger Clergy bureau, Western Passenger association and Transcontinental Passenger association be not further recognized for half rate tickets has resulted in bringing down the criticism and censure of the ministry of Texas, says a Dallas, Texas, dispatch.

The railroad company claims that there are fully 3,000 holders of clergy permits in Texas who are not entitled to half rate under the recently enacted anti-pass law of Texas, which provides that only regularly ordained ministers shall receive this courtesy.

General Passenger Agent W. G. Crush has stated that all ministers entitled to half rate tickets will be taken care of pending the issuance of a list of holders of clergy permits who are entitled to use the same under the laws of the state.

Former Sedalia in Charge.

J. A. Morgart, a former Missouri Pacific conductor out of Sedalia, and a brother of Mrs. E. T. Leftwich, of this city, was written of as follows in a recent issue of a Santa Cruz, Mexico, paper:

The first train over the Southern Pacific's new branch line left the local depot this morning for Davenport at 7 o'clock, with 25 passengers, and returned on schedule time, noon, without any wonderful happening.

Trainmaster E. A. Steininger, of San Francisco; Agent C. H. Eckhart and Division Trainmaster Jack Brennan went out on this first trip, and report a good run.

Conductor J. A. Morgart had the train in charge, and daily passenger service will continue from now on, trains to leave the regular depot.

Benjamin Merksen, a Rock Island engineer, who had just recovered from a two weeks' illness, went insane on his run yesterday, and drove his engine from Valley Junction to Atlantic, Ia., before his fireman and the head brakeman could overpower him.

The run from Adair to Atlantic was a wild one. Merksen raved and shouted that the traveling engineer was secreted on the engine and was finding fault with him.

When Atlantic was reached Merksen was taken from the engine and sent to a hospital.

Men Wanted at Katy Shops.

Between seventy and eighty men are needed for the various departments, including the store room, at the Katy shops.

At present about 450 men are employed at the shops.

The new paint shop will be ready for use by August 1.

The Fast Mail Was Late.

Missouri Pacific fast mail train No. 7, due here at 6:57 a. m., arrived at 9 o'clock today.

The train left St. Louis on time, but the air pipes on the engine burst. At Kirkwood a new engine of the freight variety was substituted, but failed to work, hence the delay.

Has an Injured Foot.

Herman Berger, employed in the Katy freight shops, dropped a car sill on his left foot at the shops yesterday, sustaining painful injuries. He was removed to the Katy hospital, where he will be confined for several days.

Hospital Arrivals.

Following are new arrivals at the Katy hospital:

Robert Gustafsen, bridgeman, Gap, I. T.

W. E. Sanford, engineer, Denison, Texas.

J. T. Ingram, brakeman, Denison, Texas.

William M. Perkins, car repairer, Denison, Texas.

William Teal, crusher laborer, Chockie, I. T.

H. Johnson, crusher laborer, Chockie, I. T.

Automatic Couplers.

Tom Warren, Katy roadmaster, went to Boonville today.

Owing to washouts on the river route, all trains from that division were detained via the main line last night.

Conductor Poole is breaking in engine No. 869 between here and Tip-top today.

John Ainsworth, who has been ill at the Katy hospital, was discharged yesterday.

L. S. Eddins, a railway accident insurance agent, went to Pleasant Green today.

Bluffton, Ind., July 18.—Following the arrest of Charles Bender, 25 years old, son of John H. Bender, of Rock Creek township, on a charge filed by Clara Harnish, came the suicide of the young man at his home yesterday.

After his arrest Bender protested his innocence and demanded an early trial, and was to have had a preliminary hearing at 9 o'clock this morning.

His father gave bond for his appearance in court and he spent the night at his home, arising at 4 o'clock yesterday morning. He ate breakfast with the family and then went to the barn. A short time later one of his sisters, upon going to his room, found a note which read as follows:

"Rather than have my folks disgraced, I will take this method to end it all. Before you discover my act I will have made my peace with God."

The young man was found lying at the back of the barn in the last agonies of death. He had poured a quantity of carbolic acid into a tin cup and had drank a large quantity. Physicians were summoned, but the young man was dead before they arrived.

Bender was to have been married some time this summer to another young woman of the neighborhood. Recently, when the impending trouble with Miss Harnish was noised about his engagement with his intended bride was broken. Miss Harnish is prostrated over the affair.
